MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

Welcome to the updated Community Strategic Plan: 2045 Your Future! This Plan provides a 20-year vision for the Kempsey Shire, informed by ongoing conversations that we have had with people who live, work, and visit here. This is your plan, your future.

20 years is a long time, so this plan evolves to make sure it reflects changes in our community's values and wishes.

We are also required by law to review the Plan at the start of each four-year Council term. It's the perfect time to be looking into the future with our newly elected Council.

In the three years since the Plan was first approved, we have had many conversations and opportunities to connect with and learn what matters most to the people of Kempsey Shire. We've listened and we've ensured your council is delivering on key priorities.

The changes made to the Plan reflect our strong and ongoing commitment to financial sustainability, plus a renewed focus on investing in our young people, safer communities, supporting the local economy, protecting our environment, and prioritising quality engagement with the community.

Kempsey Shire Council is responsible for developing the Community Strategic Plan, but delivering it is a collaborative effort. The Plan, created together, outlines the community's needs, and serves as a resource for all levels of government, community organisations and businesses to understand what the people of Kempsey Shire value and want.

Most importantly, for us at Kempsey Shire Council, the Community Strategic Plan is our master plan, guiding all our other plans and providing a roadmap for tangible progress. Everything we do, all the decisions we make, must consider what you have told us is important for our Shire's future.

On behalf of my fellow Councillors and Council, I thank all our community members who have contributed your views and I encourage your continued involvement with

Council to ensure that the Kempsey Shire has a strong future.

I have the greatest pleasure in presenting this Community Strategic Plan: 2045 Your Future!

Thank you,

Mayor Kinne Ring

ABOUT THE COMMUNITY STRATEGIC PLAN 2045: YOUR FUTURE

The Community Strategic Plan 2045: Your Future, outlines the community's hopes, aspirations and dreams for the Kempsey Shire.

This is our community's Plan and vision of what we want Kempsey Shire to be in 20 years. Feedback and data gathered from many community surveys, events and organisations has been captured and analysed (by Kempsey Shire Council) to arrive at the long-term priorities for the future of our Shire. The Plan outlined in this document is based on collaboration between all levels of government, local agencies, residents and visitors to the Shire.

It's an important reference tool for all levels of government, community organisations and businesses to plan and deliver their products and services to meet the identified community needs. Although delivery of all the strategies in the Plan is beyond Council's authority, the document is a critical governance tool that sits at the peak of Council's Intergrated Planning and Reporting Framework and provides over-arching direction for the organisation to align delivery of programs, services and investment.

HOW TO READ COMMUNITY STRATEGIC PLAN 2045: YOUR FUTURE

The first part of this Plan is an outline of where we are now, outlining the key statistics that represent our Shire for the purpose of planning and establishing the baseline. Next is the vision for our Shire. A single sentence that is aspirational, memorable and unique to our region. It also articulates the values that are core to our community.

Then, the Plan outlines the four central focus areas that will guide the community towards delivering this vision and address the quadruple bottom line of social, environmental, economic and civic leadership issues. This image helps explain the headings and layout of the tables within the Plan.

Focus Area

The content of the Plan is divided into four key focus areas.

Objective

What are we working towards? The long-term aspirational outcome that the community imagines.

Strategies

How will we get there? The activities & actions that will contribute to achieving the objectives.

Partners

Who can help? The Government and non-government organisations that will have a role in delivering the strategies.

Performance Measure

How we measure change. The indicators that will be used to measure whether we are on track to achieve the objectives.

ABOUT THE MACLEAY VALLEY

The Macleay Valley is a place of natural abundance, stunning landscapes, historic settlements, rich character and culture. Flowing down from the Great Dividing Range, through the floodplains to the Pacific Ocean, the Macleay River provides the nutrients, habitat, employment and recreation opportunities, and historical and cultural context for the Shire.

Our Shire is a diverse region, comprising mountain and forested areas, open farmlands, urban areas, coastal beaches and seaside towns. The towns and communities of the Shire are equally diverse. The original inhabitants of this area are the people of the Dunghutti Nation made up of the Dangaddi, Daingatti, Thunggutti and Djunghatti people. The Dunghutti nation is bordered by the Gumbaynggirr in the north, Biripi in the south and Anaiwan in the west. European settlement began in 1827 when Capitan A.C. Innes established a cedar party north of Euroka Creek on the Macleay River. At the heart of the Macleay Valley is Kempsey, the main service town for the community.

Built on the banks of the Macleay River, it continues to be a key centre. Kempsey has the largest residential population and is the principle service centre for the shire, providing higher order administrative, civic, education and health services. The Macleay River is the artery of our community that meanders through rural and urban areas. Whilst core to the valley's development, the river's serenity is sometimes interrupted and the flood prone nature of parts of the valley largely shape distinctive land use patterns and built form. The Shire boasts over 15,000 hectares of National Parks and 79 kilometres of pristine coastline.

The diverse range of individual plant species and vegetation range from coastal heathland to subtropical warm temperate and cool temperate rainforests. This broad variety of habitats support a large diversity of fauna. The Macleay Valley has strong foundations in timber, cattle, dairy and cropping and, in recent years, has witnessed further growth through new and higher-value agriculture production on smaller parcels of land. Our Shire is a single community that represents the coming together over time of many villages, peoples and industries.

DISASTER RISK PROFILE KEMPSEY SHIRE

The landscape of the Macleay Valley is treasured by the community but is a factor in the area being prone to a range of natural disasters. Since November 2009 the NSW Government records 24 natural disaster declarations for the Kempsey Shire, made up of multiple flood, bushfires, intense drought and coastal storms. While the Macleay River, that winds its way through most of the Shire is critical to the agriculture industry and the area's development, it also creates a significant and complex catchment area of 11,500 square kilometres.

Kempsey and the downstream communities of Frederickton, Gladstone and Smithtown are considered among Australia's most high-risk flood impact locations.

The lower Macleay River incorporates approximately 500km² of coastal floodplain fed by numerous other watercourses including Belmore River, Kinchella Creek, Collombatti Creek and Clybucca River, in addition to a number of wetland areas. The towns and villages of Smithtown, Gladstone, Kinchella, Jerseyville, Fishermans Reach and Stuarts Point are situated in the floodplain, with South West Rocks, Hat Head and Crescent Head accessed by roads through the floodplain.

The Australian Disaster Resilience Index, considers eight factors for scoring disaster resilience:

- Social Character
- Economic Capital
- Emergency Services
- Planning and the Built Environment
- Community Capital
- Information Access
- Social and Community Engagement
- Governance and Leadership.

Kempsey is ranked in Group 1 and considered to have a low capacity for disaster resilience, along with 308 areas across Australia where about 3.8 million people live.

Communities in this group may be limited in their capacity to use available resources to cope with adverse events and are limited in their capacity to adjust to change through learning, adaptation and transformation.

Understanding these capacities and considering disaster resilience as part of long term community planning can help communities, governments and industry work together to plan, adapt and ultimately fund preparedness ahead of disasters.

Source data: The Australian Disaster Resilience Index, Lower Macleay Flood Study and Council's submission to Reconstruction Authority's Disaster Mitigation Plan

Historically, 97% of government disaster funding has been spent on response and recovery, with only 3% on mitigation, adaptation and prevention. Council and the community of Kempsey Shire continue to work with all levels of government and disaster management agencies to understand and plan for the impacts of disasters.

A 2024 review of available data identified 30 existing Kempsey Council strategies and plans that have undergone community engagement and expert development and can be used to help to identify disaster risk reduction needs for the Shire.

Advocating to have these needs met, particularly in context of the NSW State Disaster Mitigation Plan and future Disaster Adaptation Plans being prepared by the NSW Reconstruction Authority, will be a priority over coming years.

Council will continue to work with the lead combat agency to respond to natural disasters, and support recovery efforts. Delivery of council's annual operational plan actions can be impacted by the need to divert council resources during an event. This can also have a significant impact on our ability to deliver the planned services across our 4-year delivery program.

FIONA HARARI
The Weekend Australian May 16, 2020

While a single catastrophe can involve years of recovery, the residents of this shire have dealt with multiple floods, fires, storms and intense drought – only to learn that they were also among the communities most vulnerable to the health implications of coronavirus. With a small population, a lower socio-economic base and a council that relies on outside sources for a considerable chunk of its funds, it sounds like a formula for, well, disaster. And yet somehow Kempsey and its people are still standing.

Council has a proven track record in the preparedness, response and recovery phases of emergency management across a variety of hazards and as such NSW SES is very supportive of measures Council has undertaken to improve community emergency preparedness.

COMMUNITY FEEDBACK

Community Strategic Plan 2045: Your future reflects the opinions, values and aspirations of our wide and diverse community, based on thorough review, analysis and interpretation of community engagement, and survey data, legislation and best practice.

In 2021-22, a significant review of the Community Strategic Plan was undertaken over a period of two years which included targeted vision and values exercises, investment in annual quantitatively community survey data, assessment of feedback on major strategic planning documents group under 'your future' brand. The engagement and data sources assessed as part of the Community Strategic Plan review include; Micromex Surveys, community catch up series documented since 2018, Why Local Government Matters – Institute for Public Policy and Governance 2019, Regional Development

Australia, Housing Action Program 2019 and 2020, Workforce Development Forum Report, North Coast Skills Snapshot 2019, NSW North Coast NSW Employment Strategy and Action Plan, SMART region proposal, Many Rivers Regional Housing Strategic Plan, Department of Infrastructure, Transport, Regional Development and communications – Smart Cities communities of Practice and Smart Cities Plan, Federal Government, National Performance Framework, Final Report 2017, Horizon 2030 Macleay Valley Economic Development and Tourism Strategy, GHD Workshops on flood recovery impacts, Macleay Valley Coast Destination Management

This engagement work resulted in the Community Strategic Plan 2042: Your Future.

COMMUNITY STRATEGIC PLAN 2045: YOUR FUTURE

Council's are required to review their Community Strategic Plan for each new term of Council. Following the September 2024 local government elections, we moved into a new term of Council, and undertook community engagement activities to check in with the community to understand if things have changed since preparing the previous Plan in 2022.

This engagement included undertaking the 2024 Micromex Community Satisfaction Survey, the Shaping our Future and Council Priorities Survey, face to face engagement sessions in the community and reviewing feedback from previous engagements including Integrated Planning and Reporting submissions and outcomes from the Learning The Macleay 2024 community survey. Any changes in community sentiment have been noted and reflected in this Community Strategic Plan 2045: Your Future.

A COMMUNITY THAT IS ENGAGED AND WORKING TOGETHER CAN BE A

POWERFUL FORCE

WHAT HAS CHANGED?

The engagement undertaken in October 2024 to check in with the community demonstrated that the Plan adopted in 2022 was still very relevant, and it highlighted particular priorities for the community in 2024.

These were: concerns around community safety, economic development and local business support, financial sustainability of council, cost of living pressures, and a desire for meaningful community engagement. In addition, the community indicated a desire for a continued focus on ensuring we have adequate infrastructure to support population growth, housing affordability, protecting the natural environment, engaging our youth, arts and culture and sport and recreation opportunities.

WHAT THE COMMUNITY WANTS

These statements reflect the sentiments the community expressed through the extensive engagement undertaken in 2021-22. They have been updated to reflect changes identified in the 2024 community engagement check in and provide clear directions and expectations for the future.

WE VALUE

- Natural beauty of the coastal, rural and hinterland environments
- Retaining people in the Valley with access to relevant services and opportunities
- Our diverse cultures, lifestyles and history
- Agricultural, commercial, and industrial opportunities to expand our economy
- Access to built and natural infrastructure to enable active lifestyles
- Relaxed rural lifestyle
- Our physical and emotional connection with the Macleay River

WE NEED

- Homes, infrastructure, and community networks that can withstand natural disasters
- To reflect our heritage and culture in the streets and public spaces
- Greater access to transport, education and health services
- Affordable, safe and secure housing for our community
- Vibrant business community that creates jobs
- Collaborative and inclusive decision making and meaningful engagement
- Places and spaces and events where we can participate, connect and inspire
- Opportunities and employment for young people
- To feel safe and included

WE ARE CONCERNED ABOUT

- Whether the built environment retains the local character
- Planning infrastructure that can withstand impacts of climate and population change
- Loss of our green space, natural beauty and biodiversity
- Sustainability of local business and decreased CBD activity
- The quality and maintenance of our roads and infrastructure
- Creating safe places to live, work and visit
- Aging population and services and housing needs for this group
- Cost of living
- Crime and feeling safe in our community

OUR VISION STATEMENT

A vision statement is unlike any other strategic element. It is not comprehensive, it is not measurable and it is not about now. It's a postcard from the future, declaring in a single statement what the community wants to be. Framed in aspirational, forward-thinking language, visions should be creative, ambitious, and have a logical connection to the community. This isn't a road map or a comprehensive list of every desirable outcome, but rather the simplest articulation of the destination our Plan should lead us to.

This vision statement can act as a touchstone to help community organisations make decisions and align their efforts with the community's desires. The 2045 Your Future vision statement was crafted by bringing together the priorities, visions and strengths identified by the community and framing it in plain language that is memorable and unique to our shire.

HOW DOES THE COMMUNITY STRATEGIC PLAN 2045: YOUR FUTURE FIT IN?

Together, we have developed an ambitious long-term vision that deserves commitment. While Council has a custodial role in initiating, preparing and maintaining our Community Strategic Plan, and is the only stakeholder required to report on the progress, Council is not wholly responsible for its implementation.

It is a plan which sets the direction for the whole of the Shire. All of our community, including government agencies, business, the not-for-profit sector and our residents have a role in its success.

Without the contribution of the partners identified in the Plan, and our wider community, we will be unable to achieve the vision for the future of Kempsey Shire.

COUNCILS ROLE

There are different roles that council plays in helping deliver the plan which includes:

Leader

Council plans and provides direction, identifies issues and mobilises stakeholders

Collaborator

Council partners with other organisations to deliver outcomes for the community

Provider

Council provides services, facilities, infrastructure and programs to meet the long term goals of our community

Advocate

Council advocates on behalf of our community and provide a collective voice

ALIGNMENT WITH STATE AND REGIONAL PRIORITIES

Under NSW legislation councils are required to develop a Community Strategic Plan to create a whole of community vision so that council and the community are all working in the same direction.

The goals and strategies in Community Strategic Plan 2045: Your Future have been developed to align with and reflect principles that are relevant to a broad range of national, state and local plans.

ACCOUNTABILITY

The plan also provides a way for council to be accountable to the community and the NSW Government. Each Community Strategic Plan, including this one, is reviewed in the year following a local government election, and a report on the progress of implementation of the plan is presented to the outgoing councillors at the end of their term.

The relationship between this Plan and the other key Council planning documents is demonstrated in the Integrated Planning and Reporting Framework diagram to the following page.
